FINDING PERIODICALS

The Periodicals Collection at the Mesa County Libraries consists of over 300 titles shelved in the Children's Center, six branches, and in the Central library, in hardcopy and microform. The collection is satisfactory to most of our patrons' needs; however, due to rising periodical costs and space limitations, trimming the collection is still necessary.

If you can't locate a title, or if you can't locate back issues of titles we subscribe to, you can still get useful information by going to the many electronic databases accessible from home as well as any library catalog computer. Go to the Mesa County Libraries website, www.mcpld.org, and click on "Research Tools," then "EBSCOHost." Here you will find alphabetical and subject lists of periodical sources. This excellent, free resource allows you to access approximately 2,000 general interest periodicals as well as thousands of other newspapers, business sources, academic journals, and health publications. Many periodicals begin their online information as far back as 1975 and continue to the present, and most of the articles are available to print in full text.

If you need assistance in your search for newspaper or magazine articles, ask at the Information Desk.
